Our locations are just what you would expect to find in Turku.
The unexpected.

Entering the oldest town in Finland one might think it's a museum. Well, it's not. It's what we call a newseum as we have been trending since the 13th century. We have always been open for new ideas, so dig in and find out what we have for you.

The largest archipelago in the world, in a medieval-meets-modern city milieu.

The West Finland Film Commission promotes our regions to international and national film and TV productions, and is deeply committed to developing the local audiovisual industry.

The West Finland Film Commission offers film production companies a uniquely beautiful production environment close to the densest archipelago in the world, in a medieval-meets-modern city milieu. The Arts Academy at Turku University of Applied Sciences is an internationally acclaimed film and animation academy, and collaborates with the film commission and provides productions with trainees of various skillsets.

The WFFC is located in Turku (Åbo is Swedish) and works within Turku Science Park Ltd, a regional development organization for numerous sectors. The WFFC is a member of AFCI (The Association of Film Commissioners International). The WFFC is also part of the national Finland Film Commission banner, together with the other regional film commissions of Finnish Lapland, North Finland, East Finland, South East Finland, and Tampere. As the Finland Film Commission, we promote the whole of Finland as a filming location and production services destination.

Our one-stop-shop principle helps producers meet even the highest requirements of any production.

Financing

As the largest regional film commission in Finland, the WFFC also finances projects in the form of production support. Financing is based on local expenditure, meaning production costs must amount to a minimum of quadruple the sum of granted production support. Support can come in the form of payment, or alternatively the commission can directly cover production service costs. In addition to local and national financing, the commission also helps productions find private equity.

Please note that the WFFC does not finance film development or marketing. Financing decisions are made by Film Commissioner Teija Raninen.
